

2023 ANNUAL REPORT

If delivering more services than the year prior equals success, then Helpline House had a very successful year. More demand for Helpline House services means individuals are experiencing more instability and life challenges, so it's hard to call that a success, but providing those services, that safety net and that sense of hope is exactly the reason Helpline House exists in the Bainbridge Island community.

Helpline House had over 4,000 more visits to the food bank in 2023 than in the prior year. Four thousand. Our building was not designed for that volume and it was a stretch to ensure everyone could fit in, but at each visit, shoppers found shelves stocked with nutritious options and were greeted by dedicated staff and volunteers. The trend of increased food bank visits naturally translated to a higher amount of food distributed each month (68,575 pounds), more Kids' Pantry bags (939), and an increased amount of shoppers accessing our Porch Pantry (2,190).

NEW HOUSEHOLDS SERVED SURGES 20% IN FY23

Our community showed, again and again, how much they care about their neighbors and our whole community by supporting the food bank with food drives, individual gifts of food, and donations of gift cards. Our community offered its time, as well, in many ways, including through volunteering at the food bank, and facilitating each and every one of the over 15 thousand visits in 2023.

If success is launching more programs to meet the direct needs of our community, then Helpline House was even more successful in 2023. Because we heard from our neighbors about unmet needs, we started a Child Therapy program and hired a Community Care Coordinator to address the complex needs of seniors in our community. We were creative with our space constraints and didn't let our facility challenges delay the inception of these needed and necessary offerings.

Our Children's therapist had a full caseload after only a few months and facilitated 213 appointments in the latter part of 2023.

children in the households that shop at the food bank.

More children ages 5-12 who have experienced emotional stress or trauma were helped through expressive therapy.

seniors are shopping at the food bank.

More older adults connected to resources and house calls to age in place.

Our Community Care Coordinator, hired mid-year, began right away convening with other agencies on the Island and in the County, bringing that knowledge and collaboration to our neighbors to help connect the dots that aging in place sometimes spreads out. Because she is able to do home visits, our Community Care Coordinator has been able to reach Islanders who wouldn't otherwise necessarily visit Helpline House. Sometimes she brings a bag of groceries, sometimes she brings other resources, but she always brings a helpful attitude and the knowledge that she and Helpline House can make a positive difference in the lives of our aging neighbors.

We asked more of our volunteers this year – more time, more ideas, more tasks – and of course, they delivered. Simply reporting that volunteers gave 12,742 hours in 2023 does not do justice to the value they brought to Helpline House in their presence, support, strength, and joy. While Helpline House is often on the 'giving' side in the circle of giving and receiving, we find ourselves squarely on the receiving side to have the gift of such wonderful volunteers.

Helpline House exists because of and for this amazing community on Bainbridge Island. I think we all agree it's been another successful year.
